

CONNECTING kids to the arts

And making a LASTING IMPACT on future generations

When children connect with the arts, they develop a passion for creative expression. That passion becomes a constant thread throughout their lives, providing a source of inspiration for future successes and personal growth.

Arts Umbrella creates magical opportunities for young people to explore their world through art. Situations where children and youth aged 2–19 learn to express themselves, discover talents, and develop abilities that will help them thrive throughout their lives.

Arts Umbrella has been committed to making a difference in children's lives since its beginning in 1979. By combining strong artistic learning principles and multiple artistic disciplines with wide accessibility, the founders developed a sound model that remains at the heart of the organization's activities to this day.

Through participation in the arts, young people can discover their interests, their calling, their next hobby, or even their career direction. Many successful artists and business leaders can trace a turning point in their lives back to a moment in their childhood, or an encouraging comment, or an early success in a creative environment.

The magic that happens when creative exploration and learning are tied together continues to be a daily reality at Arts Umbrella programs. Young minds are given access to the tools and freedom to create, which allows them to reach their full potential. This is the magic of Inspiring Kids for Life through the Arts.

Bringing arts education to NEW HEIGHTS

As I look back over the year, I am reminded of the pace at which things change and yet seem to be the same; I look at the wonderful images of the children in the classrooms and I see the wonder of enjoyment and interest on their faces. I often step into the classrooms or visit our off-site locations and I am so impressed with the focus of the children and the commitment of our talented artists/instructors.

Arts Umbrella has always strived to deliver the highest quality of programming to as broad a range of children as possible and as we continue to increase the time our instructors spend in our communities, we see the impact we can have on the creative aspects of children's development. More importantly, we see the difference in the children's personal success and development of life skills that will stand them in good stead for their adult years.

We are looking forward to opening Arts Umbrella locations in Surrey; we have spent the last 18 months meeting with individuals in the community and we are very excited to be working with so many groups in the City of Surrey to provide arts education closer to where children live. We have been very fortunate to receive the support of so many corporations and individuals who believe in our mission and in the quality of the children's experiences. I thank them for their trust in us and their commitment to making this regional expansion a reality. This is an exciting time for us.

I would be remiss if I did not acknowledge and thank all of our long time donors and volunteers, and in particular our amazing board who has provided the leadership and support for Arts Umbrella to continue to respect its original mandate while at the same time moving ahead to adjust our work to be current, relevant, and accessible to more children in a broader regional footprint.

LUCILLE PACEY President & CEO

There is a strong bond between the people who interact with Arts Umbrella and the mission to Inspire Kids for Life through the Arts. The mission resonates immediately, and almost everyone can recall a moment in their own lives when they interacted with the arts in a way that allowed them to become the person they are today.

This year marks the completion of a four year strategic plan, and the birth of the next. The specific annual goals may shift, but the underlying mission remains unchanged. It has remained consistent since the organization was founded more than three decades ago.

This is one of Arts Umbrella's great strengths: consistency. Consistency not only in its mission, planning, and strategies, but in the way the programs and plans are developed with the community, and in the way relationships are built by ensuring the mission and goals are shared.

As an example, with a base of committed supporters, including Surrey City Council, and an understanding of the community's needs, Arts Umbrella's Surrey locations are poised for success that will greatly benefit the children of Surrey for many years to come.

We cannot thank our many supporters enough for sharing our belief that arts education is a critical part of a young person's healthy development and that it should be made accessible to as many children as possible. It is the sharing of this idea that makes it all possible.

RICHARD W. PROKOPANKO Board Chair

Encouraging self-expression AND CREATIVITY

Inspiring Kids for Life through the Arts is more than Arts Umbrella's tag line. It is what happens every day in Arts Umbrella classrooms, studios, and outreach locations, when arts education affects positive change in the lives of young people. The kids at Arts Umbrella are at the centre of this magic.

Guiding their creative journey are 160 professional artists and arts instructors who share their commitment, enthusiasm, expertise, and caring for the benefit of the next generation of creative thinkers.

With their encouragement and instruction, children have the freedom to unleash their own creativity and the opportunity to learn to appreciate the creative process. By providing skilled and passionate education, Arts Umbrella instructors create environments where magic happens every day.

For the past four years, a survey has been conducted with parents and guardians to gather insight on the impact arts education has had on their children's lives. The feedback has been remarkably consistent, indicating they notice positive changes in their child that can be attributed to their participation in an Arts Umbrella program.

“I believe in your philosophy. Arts Umbrella has been offering a great environment for students to excel in what they enjoy and want to do.”

93% My child looks forward to time spent with their instructor.

“The instructors at Arts Umbrella are exceptional – not only do they love and understand their craft but they know how to share it with children. We have not encountered this with other programs we have taken elsewhere.

Instructors are actual artists who demonstrate their own passion for the arts and actively pursue their own artistic endeavors and share them with the students. This further reinforces the value of the arts. The boys have been excited to see their instructor perform or their artwork on display.”

Guiding children on a PATH TO SUCCESS

“Our children have enrolled in almost every genre Arts Umbrella offers but the benefits transcend the skills taught in visual art, dance, and theatre classes. The opportunity to see themselves reflected in their creations and in doing so, support and enhance their heart and souls has been priceless.”

— Parent & Donor

Arts education received early in life helps build a foundation for life-long success in the demanding world of tomorrow. It helps children grow up as happier and more productive individuals, which contributes to happier and more stable communities. An investment in children’s creativity is not only an investment in a child’s life; it is an investment in the health of the society, today and tomorrow.

The benefits of participating in high-quality arts experiences at a young age are significant. More than a ‘nice to have’ part of growing up, arts education provides tomorrow’s adults with many skills that will be critical to success in a world where innovative thinking, creativity, and independent decision-making will be required characteristics. As we move further into a ‘creative economy’ children who have not been given the chance to learn these skills may face a tougher road ahead.

New research continues to prove that receiving arts education early in life can result in many tangible, life-changing benefits. Children who develop arts literacy (knowledge, skills, and ability), have the opportunity to:

- Develop self-confidence and self-worth
- Explore and develop creativity and innovation
- Develop an ability to make decisions independently
- Gain a wider view of themselves and their opportunities
- Learn how to work with others
- Develop discipline
- Learn to appreciate the arts as participants and spectators
- Learn technical skills
- Learn to set and achieve goals
- Improve scores in math and science
- Improve their odds of success in all areas of their lives

Making art more ACCESSIBLE

Arts Umbrella measures its success by examining the level of impact on children and youth. The 2010/11 plan indicated key areas for growth, based on community need and demand. A key component of all Arts Umbrella activities is accessibility, which was expanded again in the past fiscal year through increased outreach spaces and bursary distribution. This has allowed more children to overcome barriers to participation, and access a rich artistic experience that will last a lifetime. Percentages and figures listed indicate a change from 2009/10 fiscal year to 2010/11 fiscal year.

24,000 CHILDREN AND YOUTH PARTICIPATED IN ARTS UMBRELLA PROGRAMS. From tuition-based programs to outreach to performances, a diverse range of opportunities were created for young people in Metro Vancouver.

I cannot stress enough that Arts Umbrella really did shape my life and my career as a graphic designer. It is amazing how such a seemingly small part of my life so long ago could have had such an impact on where I am now.

— Arts Umbrella Alumnus

MORE THAN 1000 CLASSES IN VARIOUS DISCIPLINES WERE OFFERED THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

An exceptionally diverse range of programs makes Arts Umbrella unique in North America. Children are exposed to many art forms arts by virtue of witnessing their peers participate in other disciplines. Arts Umbrella offers classes for all ages and skill levels in:

VISUAL & APPLIED ARTS (painting, drawing, sculpture, architecture, photography)

MEDIA ARTS (sound design, graphic arts, animation) PERFORMING ARTS (theatre, dance, music)

15% MORE CHILDREN RECEIVED BURSARIES.

84 children were provided bursaries, allowing them to overcome financial barriers to participating in tuition-based programs. Based on financial need, bursaries directly offset a large portion of program costs.

32% OF ENGAGED outreach programs were delivered to children ages 2–6.

Research continues to show that the earlier arts education is experienced in life, the greater the positive impact on a young person's life will be.

119 MORE SPACES

WERE PROVIDED IN ENGAGED OUTREACH PROGRAMS: an increase of 9% An engaged outreach program is described as one that is at least six weeks long, allowing for students to gain a deeper understanding of the arts and receive greater benefit from participation.

90 MORE SPACES in outreach programs were offered in Surrey

A TOTAL OF 240 SPACES

were available for children at Lena Shaw Elementary and Mary Jane Shannon Elementary to participate in after-school and Spring Break programs.

Listening to the needs of THE COMMUNITY

Based on research and community consultation, Arts Umbrella partners with neighbourhoods, schools, and community centres in areas with a high 'vulnerability index' to deliver programs where they are needed the most, and where the positive impact to children and youth will be the greatest.

Outreach programs harness the Arts Umbrella magic and expertise and deliver free-of-charge arts education to children in communities across Metro Vancouver. Outreach classes, workshops, and performances remove geographic, cultural, and financial barriers to children's participation and provide them with opportunities to explore their creativity, and give them access to the life-long benefits of arts education.

Arts Umbrella has taken its programs on the road as outreach since 1989, starting with programs that are still operating today: the Rio Tinto Alcan Van Go and Stage Coach programs. Today, thousands of children participate in various programs that take place at 44 community service locations, from Vancouver's downtown eastside all the way to Surrey Centre.

DEPARTURE OF SARAH MCLACHLAN MUSIC OUTREACH – AN ARTS UMBRELLA PROJECT

In 2002, Arts Umbrella and international recording artist, Sarah McLachlan, embarked on a joint venture: to bring free-of-charge music education to vulnerable children in East Vancouver. The program began with 145 students. Nine years and 900 students later, the program has grown to accommodate almost 300 children and youth each year. The students learned more than music skills; they also reaped the additional benefits that involvement in the arts brought to their lives.

Arts Umbrella developed teaching models that ensured children were provided with a high quality arts education experience. Arts Umbrella also provided the program with a solid administrative basis that continues to influence the program's development.

This successful endeavour has now moved on to its next phase and become the independent Sarah McLachlan School of Music. Arts Umbrella is proud to have been a part of the successful development of a program that continues to foster creativity through music in Vancouver's children and youth.

Community involvement has many faces at Arts Umbrella: from involvement in civic, provincial, and national arts initiatives, to producing festivals for all young artists at Arts Umbrella, to raising funds with special events. All activities contribute to public awareness of Arts Umbrella's mission, and share the inspiration that happens in classrooms with the broader community. Here are some examples of Arts Umbrella projects in 2010/11:

CULTURE DAYS September 26, 2010

Culture Days is a collaborative movement designed to raise the awareness, accessibility, participation, and engagement of all Canadians in the arts and cultural life of their communities. This Pan-Canadian, grassroots initiative provides opportunities for Vancouverites to demonstrate their unique identity to the nation and also highlights the voice of youth the dialogue of Canada's arts community.

For the inaugural Culture Days, Arts Umbrella presented a collaborative public mural project entitled 'HeArt of Community'. Developed and facilitated by Arts Umbrella instructors, community members of all ages and abilities were encouraged to contribute to a large-scale canvas, which was then displayed outdoors at Arts Umbrella Granville Island.

EXPRESSIONS FESTIVAL 2011 April 28 – June 26, 2011

Expressions is a yearly Arts Umbrella presentation of performances, showcases, and exhibitions that brings together Arts Umbrella students for a festival of the visual, media, and performing arts. Every discipline, every class, and virtually every Arts Umbrella student from Spring Session has work represented in the festival. This allows children to take pride in their accomplishments and share that pride with family, friends, and the broader public. The community is invited to the events, all of which are presented at low or no cost.

RAISING FUNDS with the help of the community

Making sure programs are sustainable and accessible drives all of Arts Umbrella's fundraising strategies. Arts Umbrella supporters include individuals, corporations, foundations, and government. All share the belief that arts education is an important component of a healthy community and many contribute critical funding year after year.

Part of Arts Umbrella's success has been established by raising funds a year in advance, which allows for greater confidence when planning programs. This strategy also makes the organization more resilient when faced with immediate changes to the financial landscape and allows published programs to proceed without risk of cancellation.

A key component of Arts Umbrella's financial plan, fundraising events support the ongoing stability of annual programming directly. In addition to the work done by Arts Umbrella staff, events are chaired by volunteer committees and supported by hundreds of volunteer hours. Arts Umbrella's special events are well established and well attended and offer unique opportunities to support children's arts education.

A strong, diverse, and committed source of funding continues to allow Arts Umbrella to deliver the benefits of arts education to thousands of children throughout the region annually.

Responding to a need IN SURREY

After years of planning and research, Arts Umbrella is set to open two new, permanent locations in the City of Surrey. Community consultations and market research has reconfirmed that there is a need and a desire for more children's arts programs in the Surrey area.

“This Arts Umbrella outreach program is amazing. It helps me make sense of situations and helps me make sense of even things we learn about in school. There is definitely an unexplainable bond between everybody in our class.”
— Outreach Student

OUTREACH PROGRAMS PROVIDED
240 SPACES
for young people in Surrey in 2010-2011.

These programs set the stage for Arts Umbrella to offer a full slate of programs in 2012, reaching thousands more in the first year of operation alone.

The current City of Surrey council has a focus on ensuring the city's children and youth are provided with access to benefits that can help them succeed in life, making this an opportune time for Arts Umbrella to become a part of the healthy growth of one of the province's largest cities.

CITY OF SURREY CHILD AND YOUTH FRIENDLY CITY STRATEGY

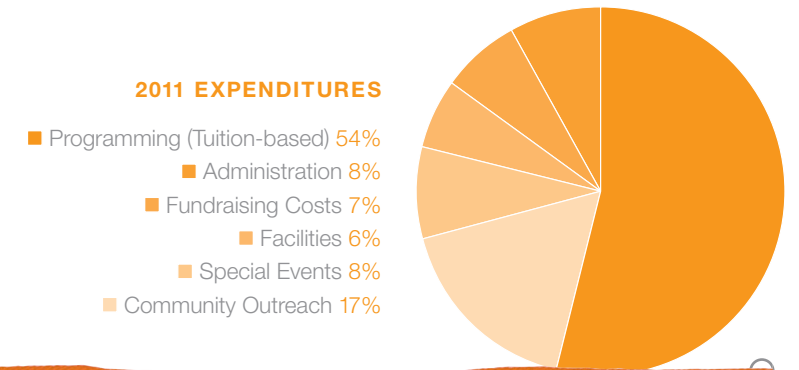

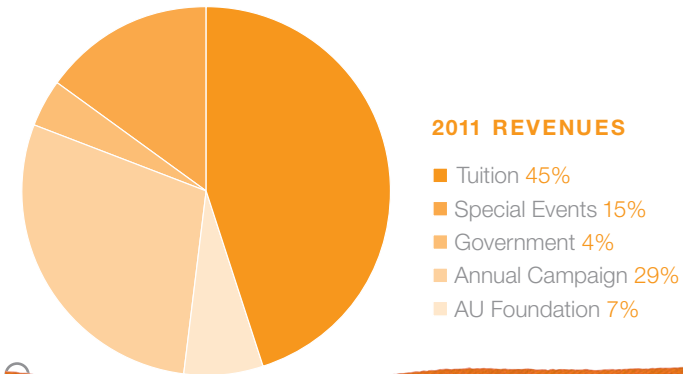

In 1979, United Nations' International Year of the Child, Arts Umbrella opened its doors to 45 children. It was an endeavour buoyed by the dream of five enthusiastic artists and parents concerned about the lack of arts education available to children.

Now, more than 30 years later, the City of Surrey has modeled its Child and Youth Friendly City Strategy by UNICEF, which promotes the concept of a child and youth friendly city, as means of supporting children's rights as enshrined in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Cities across the globe have responded by developing child and youth friendly city policies, plans, and strategies. While Surrey's strategy is based on the expertise and best thinking from these initiatives, it is a "made in Surrey" strategy, intended to fit with the unique circumstances and needs of communities that constitute the City of Surrey.

Surrey's vision of the Child and Youth Friendly City and Arts Umbrella's mission are closely aligned, sharing a goal to develop "a community where all children and youth are able to access enriching and engaging programs and services that promote their healthy development regardless of their family's income or background."

Finding our balance for FUTURE SUCCESS

Arts Umbrella's financial health is protected in part by the fundraising strategy of raising the majority of required funds a year in advance. As well, the ability to draw funds from a strong endowment base provides extra stability in changing financial climates. Yearly budgets are based on secured revenue, allowing for program plans to proceed confidently, with little risk of programs being cancelled due to insufficient funding.

Coming together with A SHARED VISION

Volunteers provide an irreplaceable component to the success of Arts Umbrella. From administrative assistance to providing leadership on the board of directors, volunteers impact every level of the organization. The time and dedication that is given every year by Arts Umbrella volunteers is truly inspiring. With their ongoing support, time, and expertise, new and established projects thrive. A Volunteer Appreciation event is held every year, to show gratitude for the dedicated roster of volunteers, many of whom return year after year.

CHILDREN'S ARTS UMBRELLA FOUNDATION

The Children's Arts Umbrella Foundation (CAUF) is a cornerstone of Arts Umbrella's financial stability. Established in 1991, the CAUF stewards more than $5 million of endowed funds, enhancing the Association's ability to provide innovative programs through changing financial climates.

The interest generated by the endowed funds is allocated to Association initiatives or reinvested according the recommendations of the CAUF's board of directors. Founded on the principle of providing security to the organization's fiscal health, the Foundation plays a critical role in maintaining Arts Umbrella's ability to realize its vision.
